

BLATT WINS: BLANK VOTES RULED OUT

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The state Supreme Court today upheld a lower court order invalidating some 5,000 "blank space" votes in the Philadelphia primary election, thus virtually assuring Genevieve Blatt the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in the November election. In a brief order signed by Chief Justice John C. Bell Jr., the high court ruled the votes in dispute were "invalid and void."

—which affirmed the unanimous decision of the (Philadelphia) Board of Elections, which held that votes in so-called blank rows were invalid and void—is affirmed," the decision said. "I am very much gratified by the court's action," Miss Blatt said. "As soon as the secretary of the Commonwealth certifies my nomination, I will be ready to wage an active and vigorous, and I hope successful, campaign."

Clark (D-Pa.) said he was "very pleased, delighted" with the state court's action. He was one of Miss Blatt's chief supporters in the primary campaign. Opinions, including dissents by Justices Benjamin R. Jones and Henry X. O'Brien, will be filed later. The ruling cleared the last major obstacle holding up the outcome of one of the bitterest primary battles in the history of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania, and paved the way for placing Miss Blatt's name on the ticket to oppose Republican incumbent Hugh Scott in the fall general election. Miss Blatt had held a statewide lead of about 755 votes (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

President Honors Levittowner

President Johnson presents a Certificate of Merit to Louis Del Colle, 34 Iris Road, Levittown, in a recent ceremony at the Pentagon. Del Colle, an industrial specialist in the Directorate of Procurement and Production at the Defense Industrial Supply Center, Philadelphia, an activity of the Defense Supply Agency, saved $29,745 for the government along with another employee of the center in the procurement of self-locking nuts used in Titan missiles.

Good Evening!

July on the downside.

A few more days of it and then it won't be long — the goldenrod.

Meantime more hot and humid skies today and we guess this you can expect right through Labor Day.

Meantime, also, you notice where Teamster Union President Jimmy Hoffa and six of his crowd were convicted in Chicago of conspiring to milk the union's rich pension fund of $25 million through fraud and deception?

Well sir, this follows his conviction in Tennessee last March of trying to fix a jury and an eight-year prison term imposed by a federal judge, and it begins to appear the noose of justice is being drawn tighter and tighter.

The Justice Department has done quite a job of lowering the boom of the pudgy, arrogant union dictator who, after the Chicago jury verdict lost a lot of his arrogance.

New violence erupts in Rochester despite 1000 troops of three New York National Guard battalions moved in by Governor Rockefeller to restore law and order in a city bowing under racial, needless and disgraceful racial riots.

It's the rockheads who are inciting this sort of jungle rule, causing nearly irreparable harm quite evidently, to the cause of civil rights and to the purposes of reasonable and intelligent Negro leadership.

Phillies all undone during the weekend as they drop three to the Cardinals and, as the Giants again lick the Dodgers, drop to just a half game ahead of the league.

This sort of thing keeps up and we're transferring our affections to the Eagles, already looking mighty good at Hershey as they drive up to their first pre-season game with the Colts August 8. You mean football season is nearly here already?

Ranger 7 Poised For Shot To Moon

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—America's Ranger-7 camera probe stood ready for a shot to the moon today to get the first closeup pictures of the mysterious lunar surface.

The 806-pound package of six television cameras was set to be rocketed on its 230,000-mile journey by an Atlas-Agena between 11:32 a.m. EST (12:32 p.m. EDT) and 1:42 p.m. EST.

Weather appeared to be the only problem today. Forecasters predicted heavy clouds and thundershowers would move into the area about noon limiting visibility needed for launch safety.

If all goes as planned, the spacecraft will hit the moon midmorning Thursday after radioing up to 4,000 pictures back to earth in the first exploratory step leading toward landing men on the moon.

Has 50-50 Chance

Scientists gave the mission a 50-50 chance to succeed. All six previous Rangers failed along with nine earlier attempts in the lunar exploration program that dates back to a Thor-Able explosion 77 seconds after blastoff in 1958.

During a tricky maneuver about 16 hours after launch, Ranger-7 will be aimed at a lunar "sea" about 560 miles west of the point where its fruitless predecessor crashed Feb. 2.

Scientists need the closeup pictures to see if the lunar seas, actually dry plain-like areas that looked like oceans to early astronomers, are smooth enough for manned landings expected by 1970.

Ranger-7's cameras may provide the answer. Engineers say its photographs should be able to record objects on the moon as small as a car. Present pictures taken through telescopes on earth are unable to distinguish lunar features as large as a battleship.

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UPI)—State troopers and local police patrolled the streets of this riot-ravaged city and three battalions of National Guardsmen stood by today as city officials debated whether to impose another curfew tonight in fear of more racial violence.

The National Guard troops were sent in last night to support the state and city police but the city was relatively calm this morning.

The city criminal court began hearing the cases of more than 555 persons arrested during the violence and pillage that flared here for three successive nights beginning last Friday. About 200 persons were arraigned Saturday.

Negroes went into the streets again last night in defiance of a nightlong curfew and hurled rocks, bottles and improvised fire bombs, mostly in hit-and-hide forays.

Helmeted and bayonet-armed National Guardsmen were trucked through Negro districts in a show of force last night, but did not go on patrol duty immediately. Their orders were to stand by as a force in reserve to be sent into the streets only if the insurrection got out of control again.

Troops Supplement Cops

Maj. Gen. Collin P. Williams commanding general of the 27th Armored Division of the New York Guard, said the troops would supplement police activity "if the situation warrants."

Gen. Williams said the troops have not been issued ammunition at the moment but that if any are committed to action "all will carry ammunition."

He added that no ammunition will be fired "until ordered by the senior officers on the scene."

Three persons were killed yesterday and nine were injured when a Civil Defense helicopter scouting a Negro district for signs of a new outbreak crashed into a rooming house, turning it into an inferno. The helicopter pilot and two residents of the home were killed. Monroe County Civil Defense Director Robert N. Abbot was burned critically.

The fiery crash raised the death toll to four since apparently long standing anger and frustration among this northern New York community's Negro minority burst into the open three nights ago—triggered by the arrest of a Negro at a street dance. The previous fatality was a white Civil Defense worker who stumbled into the path of a hit-run car Saturday night after he was clubbed by a Negro.

Harlem Gets Negro Police

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police Commissioner Michael J. Murphy took advantage of a four-day lull in racial violence today to replace five white sergeants in Harlem with Negroes.

The move to increase the number of Negro officers and patrolmen in Harlem was in line with the recommendations of Negro spokesman for easing tensions in the nation's largest Negro neighborhood.

The city was "all quiet" today but the weekend calm was shattered briefly last night when three Molotov cocktails were set off in Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section.

One man received burns on the neck and arm in one of the incendiary attacks. He was identified as James Collins, 39, a patron in the Dol Ray bar.

The bombs smashed the front windows of the bar and two other businesses — all owned by white persons — in the same area of the predominant Negro neighborhood.

Police stressed that the incidents did not indicate mass rioting would again flare up and a mobile police unit reported no looting occurred after the bombings.

Guilty Of $25 Million Fraud

Hoffa's Attorneys To Begin Appeals

CHICAGO (UPI)—Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa summoned his attorneys today to plan the appeal of his conviction on charges he conspired to drain $25 million from the union pension fund to further his own interest.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was described as "really pleased" with the verdict.

The 51-year-old czar of the nation's largest union refused to comment on the government's second successful attempt to win a conviction that could put him behind bars with his Teamster predecessor, Dave Beck.

A jury of eight women and four men returned guilty verdicts against Hoffa and six co-defendants Sunday afternoon after 17 hours of deliberation.

Hoffa, snappish and grim after the verdict was returned, let his chief defense lawyer, Maurice Walsh, do his talking for him.

Walsh Criticizes Verdict

"It's an outrageous, guessed result," Walsh said. "They went around and found everyone guilty on one count. There's no logic involved."

Hoffa's attorneys immediately filed motions for acquittal or a new trial. U.S. District Court Judge Richard B. Austin, who presided over the 90-day trial, set dates of Aug. 10 for written briefs and Aug. 17 for the hearing.

A beaming William O. Bittman, the 32-year-old assistant attorney general who headed the prosecution, telephoned the news to Kennedy at Hyannis Port, Mass.

"It would be safe to say we were congratulated and he was really pleased," Bittman told newsmen.

Kennedy, who has feuded openly with the Teamster boss since the attorney general was chief counsel for the Senate Rackets Committee in the late 1950s, said through his Washington office:

And Wants U.S. Steel To Pay It

King Farms Files $1,252,851 Vegetable Bill

The King Farms Co. in Morrisville has brought a $1,252,851 damage suit against the U.S. Steel Corporation for alleged crop damage which dates back to 1953.

The suit was filed in Bucks County Court by Karl C. King, former Bucks-Lehigh congressman; Eileen Croft and Karla Doyle, all owners of the farm.

The suit alleges that "noxious, dangerous and poisonous odors and fumes" have injured and destroyed crops such as spinach, cucumbers, broccoli and green beans.

The complaint says the plaintiffs have been prevented from the "lawful use and enjoyment" of their property.

The suit says the steel company owns the adjoining property.

Within 20 Days

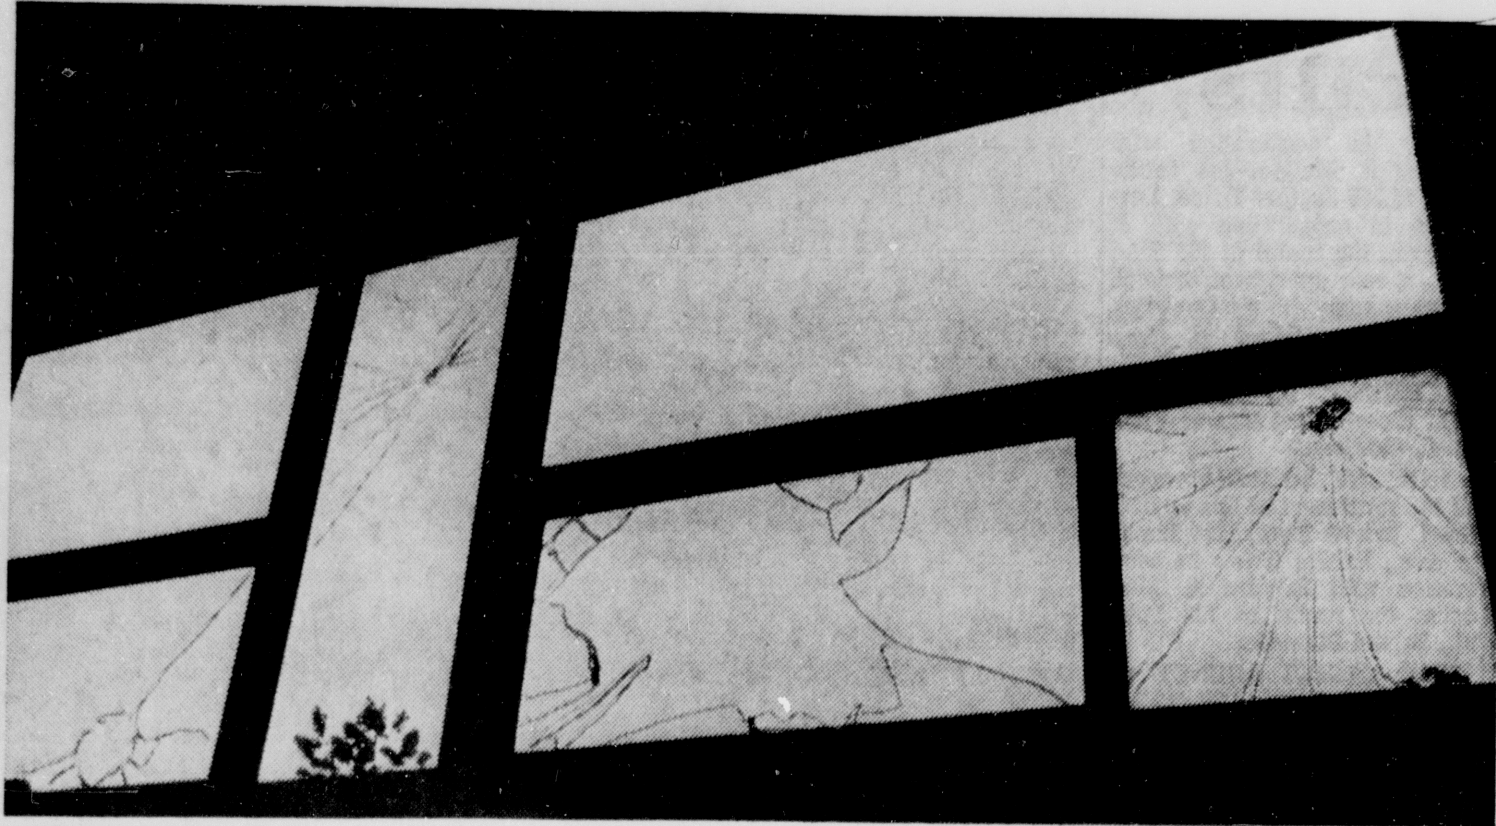

Representing the farm are attorney John Leslie Kilcoyne of Bristol and Arthur M. Eastburn Jr. of Doylestown. The steel company must answer the complaint within 20 days.

A court official said today action was originally begun in September of 1961 but the parties apparently had been unable to reach an agreement.

In the suit, damages claimed injury to crops over a six-year period, 1955 to 1960.

The breakdown includes: 1955, $297,459; 1956, $164,985; 1957, $204,375; 1958, $364,067; 1959, $88,404; and 1960, $133,560.

Four of the five broken windows of Congregation Beth El, Levittown, are shown after they were discovered yesterday morning. Two of the windows were stained glass. Vandalism is believed to have

Levittown Synagogue Is Stoned

Vandals stoned a Levittown synagogue over the weekend, breaking five windows in its social hall. Two of the windows were stained glass.

The windows, which ranged in size from two to eight feet, may cost $300 or more to replace. The vandalism occurred at Congregation Beth El at 21 Penn Valley Road, sometime between 11 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. yesterday.

The incident was discovered by members of a prayer group when they arrived at the synagogue yesterday morning. Huge stones were found lying on the floor of the social hall, amid splinters of glass.

Mrs. Pearl Langnas of 14 Nutmeg Lane, North Park, Levittown, secretary at the synagogue, said a similar incident occurred last year and another several years ago.

Mrs. Langnas said the synagogue's insurance on the windows was dropped by the insurance company following a similar incident several years ago.

Beth El officials believe the vandals must have been big boys since smaller boys would not have had the power to toss the rocks to the height of the windows.

Joseph Dressendorfer of 460 Thornridge Drive, Levittown, custodian of the synagogue, said that everything was in order when he checked the synagogue Saturday about 11 p.m.

Falls Township police are investigating.

Thieves Net $2,000 Tools

Thieves broke into a Falls Township service station sometime between yesterday afternoon and this morning and stole more than $2,000 worth of tools and equipment, including a $350 adding machine.

The burglary occurred at Adams Service Center West Trenton Ave.

The theft was discovered by Adam Adams Jr., operator of the station, when he arrived to open for business at 7:30 this morning.

Adams, who lives at 417 W. Palmer Ave., Morrisville, said, "They've taken tools that I've gotten together for over 30 years. I'll never be able to replace some of them."

Falls Township police said entrance was gained by forcing the front door.

Adams said he closed at 3 p.m. yesterday as is normally his custom.

"When I arrived this morning and saw what happened I was sick. The more we keep looking the more we discover is missing," he said.

It must be quite a harrowing experience to be jolted out of bed early in the morning by an explosion.

In case you doubt it, ask Jim Williams. It happened to him about 3 a.m. yesterday in Atlantic City.

Jim, former national advertising manager of the Courier-Times and the father of seven children, was literally jolted out of his bed by the explosion which turned out to be the gas burner in the utility room of his two-story home on Bayshore Drive in suburban Brigantine.

Fortunately though, Jim and his wife, their children, and Jim's mother-in-law all escaped unhurt. The house though was covered with soot throughout. Damage was estimated at $2,000.

Dead Girl Found

Chicago Police Hunt For Snatcher Of Girl's Body

SKOKIE, Ill. (UPI) — Police in this Chicago suburb today investigated the bizarre theft of the body of a 14-year old girl from a funeral home.

The body of Theresa Koertgen was found in an alley in nearby Evanston Sunday, some 16 hours after a funeral Mass was said for the dead girl.

Chicago police also recovered a yellow party dress believed to be the same one the girl was dressed in while lying in repose. The dress was found on the North Side of the city.

Authorities said they planned to re-question friends and relatives of the dead girl in an effort to uncover new leads.

Two suspects arrested in the case, one a 16-year-old boy whom police said had "pestered" the girl for a date, and a man who had been seen loitering in the vicinity of the funeral home, have been released, police said.

Theresa, the daughter of divorced parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Koertgen, died in a Skokie hospital after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage.

The body snatcher entered the Haben funeral chapel sometime between 10:30 p.m. Friday and 6:30 a.m. Saturday, the day of the girl's funeral. A piece of cloth, found in a window of the chapel where the thief had ripped a screen to gain entry, was sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation laboratory in Washington for tests along with other fragmentary evidence.

The body was taken to a Skokie hospital for examination. From there the body was interred in a cemetery in suburban Des Plaines.

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (UPI) — "Who would figure a city boy would know how to take care of himself in the woods?"

Other rangers described John Ireland Jr.'s survival "an absolute miracle." But young John had an

U.S. To Send Viet Nam More Men, Aid

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) — The United States has promised to send more U.S. soldier and civilian advisers to South Viet Nam and to furnish more equipment for the war against the Communist guerrillas, the Vietnamese government announced tonight.

The announcement by Premier Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh said the undisclosed number of fresh American troops would be used as additional advisers in battlefield areas.

They will reinforce the approximately 15,500 American servicemen already serving as advisers with Vietnamese fighting forces in this war-torn Southeast Asian nation.

Khanh said additional civilian advisers also had been promised by the United States.

More Equipment

The South Vietnamese premier said there would also be an increase of U.S. - supplied equipment, including transport planes, plus more technicians for maintenance and communications work.

The prime minister's announcement was issued this morning after a conference with U. S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor, former chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

A communique published after the meeting said:

"The prime minister of the Vietnamese government has just received confirmation from Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor that the U. S. government, in agreement with the Vietnamese government, had decided to strengthen the present military aid civilian advisory group in order to help the Vietnamese government."

Khanh listed four main fields of U.S. aid:

— "To have more military advisers among units of the armed forces of the Republic of Viet Nam, especially at the battalion level, the sea patrol and air units."

Strengthen Special Forces

— "To beef up the American Special Forces in order to help the Vietnamese intensify the training and supporting units of this corps with a view to increasing their effectiveness in operations against (Communist) Viet Cong infiltration across our border, and especially at conducting counter-guerrilla operations to destroy Viet Cong units and bases."

— "To have more military advisers in the provinces in order to improve regional and militia forces."

A U. S. military spokesman reported earlier today that Vietnamese government troops have killed 36 Communist Viet Cong guerrillas in a major offensive in Phu Yen Province, 235 miles northwest of Saigon. One of the guerrillas was reported captured.

The battle, centering seven miles northeast of the provincial capital of Tuy Hoa, raged into its second day today. The U. S. spokesman said the 36 Communists were killed in "just one section" of the battle and indicated final casualty figures would be much larger.

The government issued a 181-page white paper over the weekend entitled "Communist aggression against the Republic of Viet Nam." It said, "it is particularly the aid from Communist China that has daily increased the murderous violence of this aggression."

The white paper said, "evidence exists that considerable sums of money, large amounts of arms and equipment of every kind are sent secretly from the Communist countries to South Viet Nam."

It said, "the Peking government gives tangible proof of its aggressive policies by supplying increasing quantities of the latest type of heavy arms made in Communist China."

Such arms include 75-millimeter anti-aircraft heavy machine guns and 7.62-millimeter anti-personnel machine guns, the government paper said.

It said these weapons "have greatly increased the firepower of the Communist troops in South Viet Nam."

The report included an inventory of captured Chinese weapons and 32 photographs of captured arms and supplies with Chinese markings.

$70,000 Claimed

Union To Picket Sale At Kemline

Kemline Industries, Inc., Edgely, beset by a total shutdown and numerous civil suits, will be the scene of a sheriff's sale tomorrow.

The sale, which had originally been scheduled for July 16, is slated to get underway at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Meanwhile, Morris Malmignati, international representative of the Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union, Local 228, AFL-CIO, said this morning that picket lines will be thrown up around the plant to stop the removal of machinery.

"Go Ahead" Malmignati said that the international headquarters has given him the "go ahead" to use whatever means necessary to keep buyers from removing items sold at auction.

Malmignati said the union's action is the result of a $70,000 claim by the labor organization against the company.

"The machinery will stay in the plant," Malmignati said. "We'll have enough pickets there to see that nothing is moved."

The union has charged that Kemline owes its 120 employees back wages, vacation pay, and pay for holidays. In addition the union also charges the company with failure to pay Blue Cross and Blue Shield money which was deducted from employees' paychecks for the hospital and medical plan.

"This alone," declared Malmignati, "comes to more than $15,000."

Malmignati said that a Blue Cross spokesman stated that if the union is able to collect the claims of employees which are $15,000 it will honor the back claims of employees which are reported to be in excess of $11,000.

A statement from Kemline officials could not be obtained.

Police Convention

Except Faragalli Everybody There

Edward Bateman, Newtown police chief and president of the Pennsylvania Police Chief's Association, said today that more than 700 police chiefs from the state's 67 counties have registered at the Penn - Sheraton Hotel in Philadelphia for the organization's annual three-day convention which began this morning.

Bateman said that Bucks County is well represented. "I think just about every police chief in Lower Bucks who belongs to the association is here," Bateman said. "But, I haven't got a full count yet."

Familiar Face

When Bateman completes his count of Lower Bucks police chiefs, a familiar face at the state conventions for the past 28 years will not be present.

Bristol Borough Police Chief Vincent Faragalli, a member of the association's State Civil Defense Committee, was denied permission to attend this year's convention.

Faragalli, who said he had requested the permission of Mayor James M. Nealis to attend, refused further comment.

'Neat Story'

When asked why the Bristol chief was not allowed to attend the annual instructional event Nealis said, "I could tell you, but I'd rather not. It would be quite a neat story for some people."

The Bristol mayor did not elaborate on his statement.

However, Nealis continued in another vein. "I don't think the taxpayers would appreciate spending money in this way," he said. "And we have a shortage of police at the moment."

Police Vacations

Nealis referred to police vacations. He was unable to say just how many police were on vacation at the present time.

"I know of one policeman who is on vacation," he said. The Bristol mayor then referring to recent hoodlumism in the borough, said, "Then, we have this gang problem here and I think that it would be the wrong time to allow him to go."

Borough Manager Frank Patrizio Jr. when asked if money for Faragalli's expenses to the convention had been included in the construction of the current budget, would only answer, "Yes."

Nealis, however, said that he was authorized to give Faragalli the time to attend the convention, "But, I can't allow him to spend the money," he said.

Nealis, who is head of the borough's police department said that the request should have been brought before the police committee, which is headed by Frank McHugh.

"It was not," Nealis pointed out. "But, as far as I know he has gone to most of the conventions."

Bateman said this morning that he feels police chief's conventions are of the utmost importance to the leaders of police forces.

"We learn much here," he said. "In order for us to keep up with the latest techniques in police work I think it is our duty to attend."

Bateman said that speakers from all levels of police work are scheduled to address the convention.

"We'll learn more about how to handle the juvenile, criminal and racial problems which might arise in our own communities," he said.
